The purpose of the tour is to give funders an in-depth insight into the work of a variety of NGOs working in East Africa in different sectors, and their operating context, with a particular focus on locally-led organisations.

Logistics for the tour are being generously organised by Intrepid Travel at cost price.

The AIDN trip to East Africa was nothing short of game changing for me personally. I've been involved with philanthropy for over 20 years, but I've never learned so much as I did on this trip. It was as much about our fellow travellers as it was the projects and partners that we met. The group were all so smart, passionate, empathetic and logical, that collectively they helped me change the way I think about philanthropy. Plus, it was a lot of fun too! Can't recommend future AIDN trips highly enough.

Thanks AIDN for a fantastically coordinated trip to Rwanda. The Funder's Trip allowed me a centralised moment in time to have discussions with multiple implementing and donor organisations, talking and thinking strategically about the impact we could jointly or separately fund on the continent, and the successes and challenges we are encountering too.

The organisations visited and meetings facilitated were truly inspiring and we come back committed to supporting the partners and their great work being delivered.

Outside of that, it was a perfect blend of fun and serious, rest, food, work and play. Would certainly do it again and recommend to others to join.

The AIDN Funder's Trip was incredibly interesting, thought-provoking and a lot of fun. It further strengthened my belief that no one is better placed to create culturally appropriate and sustainable impact for their communities than strong local leaders, and the ones we met on the tour were some seriously inspiring humans! Travelling with like-minded folk with a wide range of experiences in the sector, offered a fabulous opportunity to reflect together and to learn from each other to improve our giving practices.

I loved being able to consistently discuss international development trends, evidence and models in an applied setting, which is crucial to learning.
